

Advisory services to support ethical design and implementation of evidence activities

Radareurope is proud to be selected by UNICEF under the Long-Term Arrangements (LTAs) for providing advisory services and support to implementing UNICEF's Policy on Ethics in Evidence Activities. Together with our partners, we bring a geographically diverse, multilingual pool of over 70 professionals with extensive experience in children's rights, safeguarding, participatory and feminist methodologies, digital ethics, and rights-based programming. We combine methodological rigour with cultural and contextual sensitivity to meet the needs of UNICEF's country offices, regional hubs, and headquarters alike.

With our global reach and multidisciplinary capabilities, we are well positioned to support UNICEF in delivering ethical, rights-based, and context-responsive evidence activities.

Our Advisory Services

- Risk assessment
- Support for the development and reviews of mitigation or management plans
- Preparation of external institutional ethics review documentation
- Capacity-building support for project teams and local partners through consultations, workshops, and training
- Preparation and review of submissions for national or local ethical clearance
- Support for formal internal debrief sessions to facilitate the capture and identification of ethical issues and lessons learnt from completed evidence activities
- Documentation of ethical case studies to strengthen institutional learning and good practice

Our Added Value

- Ethical and participatory research involving children and vulnerable groups across humanitarian and development settings
- Strong in-house systems for ethical governance, safeguarding, and risk mitigation
- Gender equality, inclusion, transparency, intersectionality and local ownership
- Capacity to mobilise rapidly and deliver high-quality outputs under tight deadlines and in politically or culturally sensitive environments
- Innovations in ethical practice, including context-sensitive ethical reviews, support for digital safeguarding, and ethical integration of AI.

We translate UNICEF's ethical principles into practical, and responsive services grounded in the lived realities of children and communities. Our lean coordination model enables rapid and consistent responses while ensuring quality and integrity.
